AN INGENIOUS ADVENTURER

The Very Unique Career of Dr. Richard C. Plower, of Boston.

DOCTOR, LAWYER, INDIAN CHIEF

Spook Medium, Orthodox Minister, Faith Healer, Agnostic, Promoter of Mining Speculations, Reformer and General Freak-Interesting Biography.

From the Pittsburg Dispatch. Alliance, O., Dec. 7.-The arrest of Richard C. Flower the forepart of this ern people in a silver mining speculation, is the sensation of the hour in all Eastern Ohio. As a druggist, Disciple minister, infidel lecturer, spiritualistic medium, bonanza king in the mines, owner of ranches and plantations too numerous to mention, and doctor, lawyer and Indian chief, all rolled into one, he forms one of the most conspicuous and interesting adventurers of the nineteenth century. Every page of his

Nearly twenty years ago he landed here, with long hair and an antiquated cape over his shoulders and glasses on his nose. He was the talk of the town and he has been ever since. He came here in response to a call from the Disciple church, at that time probably the strongest denomination in the city. The pulpit, which had been filled in former years by Rev. A. B. Way, convicted of forgery, and other unfortunate selections, was vacant. Flower was the son and brother of Disciple ministers, though previous to his advent here he was clerking in a drug store at Bowling

Proved a Sensational Preacher.

For a time he preached the simon pure orthodoxy, but was nothing at all times if not sensational. Gradually he commenced diverging from the traditional teachings of the church, and as gradually a storm commenced brewing. The congregation was about evenly divided between his followers and the old line followers of Alexander Campbell. Finally he threw off his disguise and cast dogmas to the winds. A furlous protest went up, and in the midst of his sermons he was continually interrupted by gray-haired believers in the true faith. The church split and in the war that followed the adherents of the old original faith captured the Flower then organized "The Inde pendent Christian Church." By degrees Flower became more liberal in his views, until he led his flock through agnosticism and spiritualism, into the broad arena of free thought. The organization became known as the "Broad Gauge Church," and it soon drifted into a sort of go-as-you-please debating so-

After having exhausted all other phases of human existence Flower took up spiritualism. He became a medium, and his followers became firm believers. Seances were held nearly every night, and the weird performances of his trained ghosts put to shame the tame entertainments of all former hobgoblins. He taught that departed spirits could be made to materialize in the flesh, and under conditions that completely prevented investigation he made his ghosts dance. It would require very large book to record the interesting things this aggregation of prevaricating ghosts sprung upon the public.

An Indian Ghost Dancer. Finally Flower sprung a new wrinkle, which was the foundation of his fortune-if he has one. He claimed to be especially possessed of the spirit of an old Indian doctor, who had been dend many centuries. When the spirit would take hold of him he was full of war whoops and the dance. His own spirit went to sleep, or off on a vacation, he said, while his brains and body were possessed of the spirits. Patients came to him from far and near and his medical practice assumed such proportions that he was compelled to open a spook hospital and sanitarium. He pretended that he could actually see through his patients, and if he told a fellow that he had swallowed an alligator, he would take an alligator from him and prove it. But Flower, whatever else he sands of men became infatuated with Flower had plenty of rich backers and before the spook regime they estabdependent Age. For a time it was run on a high pressure basis, sinking money at a rapid rate. The late A. W. Coates of horserake fame, put a little fortune into the paper and it is there yet.

Flower married, during his reign as the prince of adventurers, the daughter of Chris. Manfull, a well known business character of this city, and the friends of the bride, who was an exceptionally beautiful and accomplished girl, almost went into mourning. When Flower left here he went to Philadelphia and then to New York, making his appearance in the east as a phy-He advertised extensively and succeeded in humbugging enough people to live like a prince. He was arrested for practicing medicine without a diploma and fined. He then purchased a patent diploma and opened shop in Boston, where he won national fame and fortune. He always played for big stakes, and among his patients were many millionaires and people of fame. Even Joe Jefferson was, it is said, induced to go to him for

A Layer on of Hands.

He claimed to possess the power of curing by the laying on of hands, as well as the power to visibly inspect the interior of every part of the human body. His practice grew to fabulous proportions, and he bought page after page of the greatest newspapers in the country for a single advertisement. He finally built a great private hospital in Boston, and rich patients came to it from all over the world. Once or twice a year he would take a trip over the country, having a private train all to He would stop in all the principal cities for a day or two, where he found hundreds of patients waiting to be treated. He and Manfull commenced operating mines in Colorado, near Silver Cliff, and the victims of their alluring stocks are found everywhere. Their mining schemes were extended and land transactions that would stagger an ordinary millionaire were tackled by them in half a dozen locations. They were interested in Florida orange groves and swamps, in land on the barren plains, and mountain peaks. R. C. Flower, or sentiment in railway stocks a swell. The "Dick," as he is familiarly known here, has no doubt accumulated a million or more since leaving Alliance, and in Boston he lives at a millionaire gait.

Dun & Co.'s eventful life contains a sensation, and weekly review of trade tomorrow will the whole forms a farce-comedy with a rich transformation scene at the end of say: It is difficult to detect any change in current business. Prospects for business after Jan. 1 are quite generally considered more hopeful; in some branches there are larger orders, and the west bound shipments of merchan dise are a little larger. But the work naturally diminishes near the end of the year and the holiday traffic brings just now a temporary activity which is not of much general significance. The meeting of congress, and the announce ment of the new currency plan and o various bills proposed, have not affect d the situation perceptibly. On th whole agricultural products are scarce ly stronger, and wages of labor do no advance, but there is reason to expec Green, Ky. The directors of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company have called a meeting to be held on Monday next. The purpose of the meeting at this time is to select a man to fill the vacancy caused by the death of President E. B. Leisenring. Elmer H. Lawall, of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal ompany, it is believed, will be the choice. It is understood that the Leisenring people are very carnest in their desire to have Mr. Lawall fill the vacant chair, and the only opposition, if such exists, may come from George D. McCreary, of Philadelphia, who is also a large stockholder.

How much of this coal was sold and how much went into stock, cannot now be guaged, but it is believed that the increase of stocks on hand has been large for the month-larger, in fact, than carried for a long time. Shipments for the week, compared with the same week last year, show an increase of 145,835 tons, of which 78,842 tons came from the Schuylkill region, 36,736 tons from the Wyoming, and 30,257 tons

It is to be the Washington and Baltimore boulevard line, 32 miles long, contracts for 17 miles of which will be let in a few days. The first section, between Washington and Laurel, is expected to be in operation by April I, 1895. The Manufacturers' Record this week gives a complete description of the road, which, it is estimated, will cost $1,000,000. The road will be double-tracked, and laid with 80-pound steel rails. The train will have a guaranteed speed of sixty miles per hour, the fastest schedule time for any electric or steam railway. highest, 89½c.; lowest and closed, 89c. TO OUR PATRONS:

Washburn-Crosby Co. wish to assure their many pat-rons that they will this year hold to their usual custom of milling STRICTLY OLD WHEAT until the new crop is fully cured. New wheat is now upon the market, and owing to the excessively dry weather many millers are of the opinion that it is already cured, and in proper condition for milling. Washburn-Crosby Co. will take no risks, and will allow the new wheat fully three months to mature before grinding.

This careful attention to every detail of milling has placed Washburn-Crosby Co.'s flour far above other
